

Imagine sitting in a cafe with this, coffee nearby, cigarettes, ashtray overflowing. Like the old days! But no clue then that in, what? 25 years, I might write and instantly scan, OCR, etc. Geek out on that, silly young me. Go home and dial-up at 2400 baud to do some online "stuff"! Yeah! Charges and stays the same.

But how much fun would that be? To stop after X pages, open the app, do the things with the stuff... then wipe off the pages and start over. Plus, OCR this handwriting?
